FP McCann's concrete exposed is an aggregate concrete that combines the beauty of natural coloured aggregate with the strength and durability of readymix concrete. It can be used in a wide range of domestic and commercial applications with a number of different styles available.

APPLICATIONS

Concrete Exposed is available in a broad pallet of colours and is ideal in many scenarios including:

- Domestic driveways
- Patios and pathways
- Pavements and footpaths
- Public spaces and commercial areas

BENEFITS

Concrete exposed offers many benefits over traditional surfacing options:

- Aesthetic appearance – utilises the beauty of natural aggregate to achieve a highly decorative effect
- Choice – lots of colours and textures to choose from, which allows you to customise your look
- Durability – as the product is concrete, it is extremely hardwearing and is designed to withstand heavy traffic and extreme weather conditions without sinking or heaving
- Low maintenance – prohibits the development of weeds and moss, so is easy to keep clean. Tyre marks are not visible due to the coloured stones, allowing stains to be hidden
- Safety – more slip resistant than brushed/floated concrete, which means that cars are unlikely to slide on the surface, even when it is wet. Laid as a continuous surface, minimises the likelihood of trip hazards
- Minimum joints except for expansion joints
- No weeds/moss within joints (paving)
- No sealing of finished product
- Long life with minimum after care
- Fuel resistance
- Suitable for areas with restricted access
- Internal or external uses
